

More Information

The Pet Endowment Trust (PET) is a non profit organization helping pet owners with will or estate planning.

Assisting pet advocate groups with bequeath donations of property, real estate and endowments. Helping groups support themselves through assets that produce ongoing operating capital. The PET accepts donations to care for left behind pets.

Consider leaving or donating your unused property to a pet support group. A bequeath gift could provide years of funding for an animal welfare organization.

Should something happen, will your pet be looked after? Allocate funds to support your pet's welfare until a forever home can be found.

Pet Endowment Trust (PET) About Us

Mission: Help Pet Owners Remember Their Pets When Making A Will

Vision: Our vision is having pet associations that can support themselves through assets that produce operating funds ongoing.

There are thousands of individual rescue organizations to help animals and pets. Many have NO bequeath giving program.

The PET hopes to increase the number of rescued animals by helping pet owners donate property and or funds upon their death to pet related groups and organizations.

The PET website contains information, gift guides and suggested language for your estate attorney usage.

Volunteers needed who want to assist local pet groups and estate executors with pets, whos owners may not be able to return or died without having a plan for their pet.

Do you own a property that you could donate now or after your passing?
